Dear Colleagues,

Like you, we are constantly monitoring the development of COVID-19 and we are in constant touch with industry professionals and our customers.

Over the past 2 months we have maximized our entire technology and communication resources, regularly creating specialized content for you in many convenient formats. You're receiving weekly digests with relevant information, you're attending our live streams, webinars and online conferences, and communicating with each other on our various platforms.

We see how much interest the community has generated from these activities, how hundreds of specialists are eager for our event in search of answers to their crisis-related questions, to find effective business solutions, and to gain strength from the support and cooperation around the industry. At the same time, our number one priority remains the health of our exhibitors, visitors, partners and employees.

Given the recommendations and forecasts from the Moscow authorities and the Moscow region, and after consulting with all our stakeholders, exhibitors, visitors and partners, we have decided to run the IPLS 2020 on September 9-10, 2020.

Our experienced team is steadfast in its mission, that IPLS continues to be a source of development for businesses and professionals. We will continue to work closely with the professional community, providing the industry content and connectivity that you need before the show doors open.

The IPLS team is at the disposal of the customers and visitors for any questions they may have and we're here to support them.

We sincerely thank the professional community for your continued support and encouragement and we are happy to be able to serve you all at our event in September.

Best regards,

Anna Dycheva-Smirnova
